

SECOND REPRIEVE FOR HAUPTMANN IMPROBABLE

VERA ADMITS SHOOTING ON STAND TODAY

Blond Secretary is Grief Stricken at Her Trial Today

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Blonde Vera Stretz calmly admitted today that she fatally shot Dr. Franz Gebhardt, her wealthy lover, but she broke down repeatedly when she described their romance. The 32-year-old secretary, opening her own defense, had been on the stand only a few minutes when Attorney Samuel Leibowitz suddenly asked:

"You shot Gebhardt, didn't you?"

"Yes," Miss Stretz replied quietly. For a moment her calm demeanor or nearly broke, but she quickly regained control of herself.

Later, after she had described meeting the German industrialist on a West Indies cruise, she sobbed again and again.

She broke down completely when Leibowitz asked her to describe her lover.

"Loved Him Deeply"

Bowing her head, she buried her face in her hands. It was two or three minutes before she could speak.

"It's hard for me," she said, looking up. "I loved him very, very deeply."

Her counsel asked her to identify photographs of Gebhardt. Again she burst into sobs.

"Do I have to do this. Do I have to look?" she asked Judge Cornelius Collins.

"Only a glance," the judge replied.

Told of Her Marriage

She told quietly of having been married once—12 years ago, an elopement—but said the marriage was annulled after two months.

Seeking to show she did not premeditate the slaying last November in Gebhardt's apartment hotel suite, Leibowitz asked her about a revolver which she purchased in 1930 after a robbery.

"Did you ever give that revolver and box of cartridges to anyone?" he asked.

"Yes, to Fritz."

Leibowitz did not lead gradually to his first question about the shooting but brought the admission after Miss Stretz had told of her early life and studies at New York University and the University of Munich.

LOWDEN SHOULD WRITE PROGRAM SAYS COL. KNOX

Mt. Vernon, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox told an audience here that Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, and elder statesman of the Republican party, should be drafted to write a G. O. P. farm plank.

"If I have anything to do with writing the farm plank, I will insist that the job be given to Mr. Lowden," Col. Knox, making a campaign tour of south-central Illinois, told a rally last night. "If that task is given to Gov. Lowden, the Republican farm plank will be a good one."

The Illinois candidate for the G. O. P. presidential nomination addressed an overflow crowd with loud speakers piping his speech to a second hall.

Lowden recently advocated federal subsidies for farmers, the program differing from the outlawed AAA in that it would be administered entirely by states.

Marissa Publishing Plant Wrecked Today by Incendiary Fire

Marissa, Ill., Mar. 27.—(AP)—An incendiary fire, which caused an explosion, today wrecked the plant of the D. L. Lee Publishing Co., which prints the "Progressive Miner," weekly newspaper of the Progressive Miners' Union of America.

The fire and blast destroyed the pressroom of the plant, burned two cars loaded of newsprint and badly damaged several presses, linotype machines and other equipment.

D. L. Lee, president of the company, estimated damages at $35,000 partially covered by insurance.

Firemen reported finding two empty gasoline drums in the plant and oil soaked rags and pools of kerosene in the company's office, which was not reached by the flames.

WORK SHEETS OF NEW AAA READY FOR COMMITTEES

Springfield, Ill., March 17.—(AP)—Plans for putting into immediate operation the new federal farm aid program were discussed today at a meeting of farmers, extension workers and federal officials here.

The temporary county committees of four farmers from each Illinois county were invited to discuss details of the 1936 soil conservation and domestic allotment program, the substitute for the invalidated AAA.

Federal officials present were E. C. Paxton and R. E. Straszheim. The extension service of the state university's college of agriculture also was represented.

Tomorrow the county committees are to be instructed as to the recommended procedure for county and community organization and the "work sheets" on which information on soil depletion is to be filled out for each farm.

FOURTEEN DIED IN MEXICAN AIR-PLANE CRACK-UP

Cause of Fatal Crash Yesterday May Never Be Ascertained

(Copyright, 1936, by The AP) Mexico City, March 27.—Six women and eight men, ranging in rank from members of European nobility to a Costa Rican steward boy, were brought back here dead today, victims of an air disaster which halted a carefree trip to Central America.

Authorities said the bodies, too badly crushed and burned to permit certain identification would be cremated after brief services.

The 14 persons, 10 European tourists and four members of the crew of a tri-motored plane they chartered for a flight through Guatemala and Central America, died yesterday when the great ship crashed near Amecameca while attempting to pass between Mount Popocatepetl and Mount Iztaccihuatl, towering snow-covered volcanic peaks 30 miles from the capital.

May Not Learn Cause

Pan-American Airways officials ordered a technical investigation into this worst disaster in the history of Mexican aviation, but expressed doubt that the cause ever could be determined definitely because of the condition of the wreckage.

The wireless operator of another Pan-American plane, which was coming in from Guatemala at the time of the accident, disclosed that he had been "talking" with the operator of the doomed plane just before the crash.

"Limón (Adolf Limón, wireless operator who died in the disaster) told me that the passengers seemed very happy and were remarking on the beautiful views of the volcanoes," the operator of the other plane said.

"He himself was happy over the trip to Central America and said he was looking forward to a good time. The last message he sent was 'passing over Amec...' then suddenly he went off the air."

HE PREFERS PRISON

Chicago—A desire to be sent back to the Joliet penitentiary as a parole violator was the explanation given by Alex Rohda, 59, one-legged ex-convict when arrested on a charge of seizing the purse of a blind woman. Rohda said he spent 29 of his last 40 years in prison, most recently at Joliet. "There's no place so good for me," he declared.

Sterling High School Youths' Interest in Archaeology Gets Them Into Trouble in Dixon

Melvin McKenzie, aged 15, and Jack Smith, 16, sophomore students at the Sterling township high school, were taken in custody this morning by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber on warrants charging burglary, sworn to by D. T. Southwell of this city in the court of Justice Grover Gehant. Prof. Roscoe Eades of the Sterling high school accompanied the two students to the police station in Dixon to complete an investigation which was started yesterday by the police chief following the reported theft of the archaeological collection belonging to Southwell, a veteran collector. The stolen specimens were valued at about $100 by their owner.

Mr. Southwell reported to Chief of Police Van Bibber yesterday that a building had been entered and cases containing his collection had been rifled and many specimens removed. The clues pointed to the

OHIO RIVER'S FLOOD THREAT THOUGHT PAST

Heavy Rains Cause Some Tributaries to Overflow

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains swelled western streams today but receding waters facilitated reconstruction in the flood swept sectors of the upper Ohio valley.

The Ohio spilled over its shores again in the Wheeling, W. Va., area without causing appreciable damage as the new crest broke down on Marietta, O., with a 40 foot stage anticipated.

Danger apparently had passed along the river from Steubenville to Portsmouth, O.

Meteorologists predicted a crest of 35 feet at Louisville, two above earlier estimates. Sixty families had already been routed. More prepared to evacuate low lands. The Ohio rose six inches an hour at Owensboro, Ky. Rivermen warned every stream in Henderson county would leave its banks.

Illinois River Full

Tributaries of the Ohio in southern Illinois were brimming after heavy showers that presaged a higher stage than had been expected in the main river. Most residents of low territory along the Ohio from the Wabash to the Mississippi have moved to the hills. Cairo, Ill., at the confluence of the Ohio and the Mississippi, measured a rise of a foot to the 41 foot level, six short of the predicted crest. The Mississippi reached to within 18 inches of the flood line at New Madrid, Mo.

La Crosse, Wis., merchants were advised to move perishable merchandise from river front basements as the Mississippi approached flood stage.

More Money Needed

Several thousand acres were under water along the Minnesota river in the wake of heavy snow.

Meanwhile, an army of workers hurried rehabilitation of the damage in eastern states, where 200 persons perished and property loss was estimated at more than $500,000,000.

At Washington, the national resources committee announced it would develop a long-range flood control plan. Harry L. Hopkins indicated an additional $10,000,000 would be allocated to flood relief. The Red Cross announced receipt of $2,531,171 for the aid of flood victims.

GREAT BRITAIN DENOUNCED BY TWO SENATORS

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—Great Britain was classed with Germany and Italy as repudiators of international agreements today by Senator Borah (R-Ida.)

He joined Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) in denouncing British failure to pay war debts to the United States.

Prompted by the declaration in parliament yesterday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, that "we can not do the impossible," Borah shouted:

"There is no difference in law or morals between the actions of Germany and Italy and the action of these nations repudiating their debts."

Not Forced to Borrow

Mentioning Germany specifically, Borah said repudiation of the debts due this country was "infinitely more" to be criticized than Germany's disregard of the Versailles treaty because Germany signed "under duress at the point of the bayonet."

Lewis earlier had taken the floor to say "we are asking nothing not due us."

"We are not asking of these nations to pay us only because they owe us," Lewis said. "We call to their attention our flagrant and open needs. The war we fought with them has left us a debt to our own people of billions."

Lewis said that while England is crying "impossible," that country "contracts to spend anew one billion dollars for increased armaments to join in the engagement for the slaughter of nations."

BOWEN DENIES STORY

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Director A. L. Bowen of public welfare today issued a statement declaring he had not criticized the work of sheriffs or the condition of county jails.

He said he had been misquoted on statements which the Illinois Sheriffs Association demanded that he retract.

United States Citizens Nearly $3,000,000 Richer as Result of Big Race

Reynoldstown Wins Grand National at Aintree

Aintree, England, March 27.—(AP)—Major Noel Furlong's Reynoldstown repeated his 1935 triumph in the Grand National today and became the third horse to win the event two years in succession in the 98 years of the most hazardous of all steeple-chase races.

Duplicating the feats of Abd-El-Ker in 1850-51 and the Colonel in 1869-70, Reynoldstown, held at 10 to 1 in the closing odds, breezed home 20 lengths in front of Sir Davis Llewellyn's Ego, a 66 to 1 shot. James V. Rank's Bachelor Prince, also an outsider at 50-1, was another six lengths back, showing the way to the seven other finishers. Thirty-five horses started.

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Citizens of the United States who bought tickets in the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes won a total of approximately $2,899,600 when the Grand National steeplechase was run today.

Americans held five tickets on Reynoldstown, the winning horse, four on Ego, second, and five on Bachelor Prince, third.

Each ticket on Reynoldstown pays $150,000; each on Ego pays $75,000; and each on Bachelor Prince pays $50,000.

These wins, together with the money distributed on horses which did not run or finished "out of the money" and money paid out as residual and consolation prizes, complete the total.

The tickets on Reynoldstown were held by:

"The 23 Kid," Matson Navigation Co., Wilmington, Calif.

"Tilley," 622 Lexington Ave., New York.

"Black Cat," Salem, Mass.

"Red and Joe," Lynn, Mass.

"The Happy Family," Albany, N. Y.

Each of these tickets on Reynoldstown will pay $150,000.

Veteran Member of Cook Co. Committee is Supporting Horner

Chicago, March 27.—(AP)—Martin J. O'Brien, one of the veteran members of the Cook county Democratic central committee, announced for Gov. Henry Horner today in open opposition to the committee's endorsement, which went to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen.

A statement that "I'm with Gov. Horner to the finish" put the ward chairman from 1922 to 1927, definitely at odds with the "regular" Democratic machine in the fight over the gubernatorial nomination.

O'Brien's stand was not unexpected. While long an associate of Patrick A. Nash, present county chairman and national committeeman, O'Brien holds the office of public administrator of Cook county. It is regarded as one of the prize political jobs within the governor's bestowal.

Igoe and Courtney Guests of Governor

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Governor Horner's breakfast guests at the executive mansion this morning were U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, prominent Chicago Democrats attending the governor's crime conference.

Igoe and Courtney said they discussed the Democratic primary campaign with the governor, but would not comment on the situation.

Judgment Against Rockford Firm and Estate of Late President is Appealed to Supreme Court of U. S.

Washington, March 27.—(AP)—The Mechanics Universal Joint Company of Rockford, Ill., and the estate of its former president appealed to the Supreme Court today to set aside a $25,216 judgment against them in favor of the receiver for the Manufacturers National Bank & Trust Company of that city.

Erick S. Ekstrom, president of the company, also was a director in the closed bank. He died January 12, and the Supreme Court appeal was filed in the name of Grace Ekstrom, administratrix of his estate.

Sheriff Miller is Speaker at Meeting of Peace Officials

Sheriff Ward Miller of Lee county in attendance at the sessions of the Illinois Sheriffs' association at Springfield yesterday, attacked the commission for eliminating crime in rural communities, which he termed "vicious" in addressing the sheriffs of Illinois, the Lee county peace officer cited an instance where the present commission expended the sum of $3,600 in effecting the capture of three petty chicken thieves in one county, and further charged that the commission was a "political build-up."

The sheriffs of the various counties of Illinois or any other state are better acquainted with conditions and residents than some strangers, employed at the expense of the tax payers to be sent into counties, uninvited and inexperienced, Sheriff Miller told the delegates at the meeting. He further contended that the rural communities were not infested with criminals and maintained that the sending of strange investigators into rural communities served only to open an avenue for the entrance of criminals.

BROOKS MEETING HERE YESTERDAY WELL ATTENDED

Former Dixomite Given Nice Reception at Dixon Theater

Despite a heavy spring rain which set in at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a large and attentive audience assembled at the Dixon theater to hear a Dixomite, Republican candidate for the office of governor of Illinois, discuss the campaign issues. C. Wayland Brooks, son of the late Rev. Brooks who many years ago occupied the pulpit at the West End Congregational church, returned to the scene of his boyhood days in Dixon, but for a short time only and in which to discuss, in his brilliant manner, the issues of the present campaign. At the conclusion of the meeting, he visited with citizens and voters who during his residence in Dixon were his neighbors and many his playmates.

The introduction was made by Mayor William V. Slothover, who was an associate of the candidate speaker in his boyhood days in the west end of the city. Lyle Prescott presided as chairman of the meeting. In presenting the speaker, Mayor Slothover stated:

"We are engaged in what I believe, is one of the most important political campaigns in the history of the United States. In this it is important that we select men of real worth, and not entirely those of deeds, to lead this people during the next four years. Our great and former citizen whom many of us knew as a boy and others later knew as a World War hero, is of the type of which I speak. He has proven his worth and is here today to present his policies and candidacy."

After acknowledging the introduction and applause which greeted him as he opened his interesting discourse of issues, the former Dixomite said:

Rumor Denied

The Bronx carpenter, under sentence to die Tuesday night, was reported to have signed a statement that he "bought" the ransom money, more than $14,000 of which was found in his possession when he was arrested in September, 1934.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, warden of the state prison, promptly denied the report, saying that such a statement, if made, would have passed through his hands.

"Hauptmann hasn't changed his story in any detail," Kimberling said.

Hauk's statement, that he would take "quick and necessary action" to block a second reprieve for Hauptmann was followed quickly today by a word expert's personal opinion that Hoffman would not grant one.

Suggests Stay

Arch W. Loney, PWA engineer, who last night suggested to Attorney General Wilentz he consent to a 30-day stay of execution to enable further study of the Lindbergh kidnap-ladder, expressed belief in Washington the governor "will have to let him (Hauptmann) go Tuesday." The execution is set for 8 o'clock that night.

Loney, who yesterday made an examination of the flooring in Hauptmann's Bronx attic, reported to Hoffman that in his opinion the wood in rail 16—that part of the kidnap ladder the state contends came from the Hauptmann home—did not come from there.

In Washington, Loney said he

Last Gap Closed in Giant Bay Span

Clinging to girders and dangling from cables, workmen in the upper photo appeared like flies as they completed the difficult job of "hooking up" the last arms of the world's largest cantilever bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay span. Working on their precarious perches, the bridge crews hoisted two huge eyebars simultaneously and fastened them with pins weighing several tons each. In the lower photo the bridge is shown after the last gap had been closed, the arrow pointing to the juncture. Traffic will flow east from San Francisco across the tandem-suspension bridges, through the Yerba Buena tunnel, and across this cantilever span, 185 feet above high water.

did not "know anything about the man's guilt or innocence but there are some discrepancies in the evidence about the kidnapping."

Rumored "Confession"
Meanwhile, rumors of a "confession" in the Lindbergh case by a man reported held by Ellis Parker, chief of the Burlington county detectives, seeped through Trenton.

A local newspaper, started a few weeks ago, published the name of the man reported under arrest. The paper said he was a former Trenton attorney and druggist and had confessed kidnapping the child because of his hatred of society, but denied murdering it. The story was that the baby died and he buried it near Hopewell at the spot where the body was found.

Parker, taking things easy in his Mt. Holly office, laughed at the reports and said, he "ain't got no arrest."

"I haven't been doing anything on the case," he said.

Nevertheless it is expected that Governor Hoffman will take Loney's opinion before the Court of Pardons in an effort to save Hauptmann.

May Decide Tomorrow.
The Court of Pardons, if it decides to hear Hauptmann's second plea for mercy, may meet tomorrow or Monday.

But any attempt of the governor to sign a second reprieve will be strongly contested by Prosecutor Hauck.

"If it is his intention to grant another reprieve, I will take quick and necessary court action to block it," Hauck said. "I feel he has made a laughing stock of the courts who have passed upon the legal questions involved in the case."

Loney accompanied the governor to the Bronx yesterday when the governor inspected the attic of the house where Hauptmann lived until his arrest.

As long as Hauptmann's Flemington trial 14 months ago, Loney was willing to swear he did not believe Hauptmann built the ladder. He telegraphed Edward J. Reilly, then chief defense counsel, he would testify if he had more time to study the ladder.

Criticized Governor.
Hauck, in sharp disagreement with the governor and Loney over the results of the Bronx examination, said everything done yesterday supported the state's claim that the disputed rail had been cut from an attic floorboard, part of which still remained in the Hauptmann house. He also criticized the governor's activities in the case.

Loney submitted his report to the governor after the Bronx visit. In support of his contention rail 16 did not come from the attic he said:

That examinations of the flooring with calipers showed a variation between wood of rail 16 and the wood used in the floor, the test showing the ladder piece to be about one-sixteenth of an inch thicker than the floor boards.

That examinations also showed that in the other attic floor boards there were only seven perpendicular nails driven, while in the disputed board from which wood for the ladder rail allegedly was taken there were 24 perpendicular nails.

He also pointed to other purported differences between the ladder rail and the flooring.

FLASH OF WHIMSY
Marshall, Minn., March 27.—(AP)—The hard winter here ended in a flash of whimsy. First came two inches of conventional, or white snow. Then the wind shifted into the south, mixed in some particles from a dust storm and deposited a chocolate hued upper surface of three inches with a layer cake effect.

FOODS HURT TRACK
New York, March 27.—(AP)—While flood conditions interfered with the normal flow of trade in various regions, retail volume for the country as a whole during the past week ran 18 to 20 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year. Dun & Bradstreet reported today in their weekly business summary.

Easter buying gained momentum and wholesale markets turned more active as merchants in flood areas were forced to make heavy replacements of ruined stocks, it was stated.

SMALL WORLDS

By Joseph Fort Newton

Edgartown, on Martha's Vineyard, lives an old man who has never left the island but three times in his ninety-one years. He visited Boston once, twenty years ago, and did not like it.

Perhaps he has an aversion to strange places, or he may be like the old Frenchman who had never seen Paris, because he had a habit of putting off things, and never managed to make the journey.

Often he planned to go next week or next summer, but something upset his plan. Before he knew it he was securely anchored in the village burying ground, without seeing the glitter of Paris.

In Buffalo there is an old lady who has never gone to Niagara Falls, twenty miles away. She has always been busy with household chores, or has never scraped together the half-dollar fare.

If a day was set apart for the trip long ahead, it was sure to rain, or the children came down with the chicken pox, or the stove blew up. Anyway she has never heard the thunder of the falls.

In London, during the War, an apple-cheeked shopkeeper talked about our American boys. "Funny the way they look at London. Mad about it, y' know. I ben in London always, and it don't worry me."

Parents to know where that bloke was clock down in the mud for the Queen, and how many generals are buried in Westminster Abbey. Ow do I know? I live in Camden Town. I got a shop to attend to!

Even in the day of the auto it would surprise us to know how many people live in a very small world, mentally as well as physically. The big, buzzing world really does not exist for them.

They dislike breaking chains of habit; they love to stay put. Day after day they follow the old network of beaten paths in a world as contracted as that in which their forefathers lived.

Yet they are contented if not happy, and they may know life as truly, and more accurately, than a globe-trotter. One does not have to hunt hetically in far places to find the meaning of life.

"Major Bowes" to Begin Program at School, at 6 P. M.

Because of the intense interest in the South Central school's "Major Bowes" program this evening, which is to be presented by the teachers and pupils and sponsored by the P. T. A., it has been decided to hold a continuous performance, beginning at 6 o'clock. The decision to begin the program at this early hour will make it possible for all who wish to witness the performance to do so. The second performance will probably begin about 7:30 o'clock.

Last Story Hour Of Season Saturday

Miss Savilla Palmer will tell the story for the Children's Story Hour sponsored by the Dixon Woman's Club Saturday morning, March 28th, in the public library. This will be the last story hour for the season.

"No Excitement"

St. Paul, March 27.—(AP)—Miss Bertha M. Tiber, supervisor of nurses for the Alaska Indian Service, said she was glad to be able to attend a public health nursing institute here. Nothing, she explained, ever seemed to happen in Alaska.

Of course, she did fight a widespread measles epidemic, was almost lost in a blizzard and traveled 500 miles by dog sled in making her rounds, but, she protested:

"I haven't been in on any thing spectacular. One nurse went 800 miles by dog sled and another 1,100 miles."

Concert at Methodist Church Apr. 21

The Harcourt String Trio, an Evanston organization, and Mary Frances Averill, reader, and Beulah Casler Edwards, lyric soprano, will appear in Dixon in the near future—to be exact, on Tuesday evening, April 21st, at 8 o'clock at the Methodist church, at which time they will give delightful entertainment.

The evening will be sponsored by the Wesleyan Missionary Society of the church and no doubt the church will be packed for this organization, the Harcourt Trio and the soprano and reader come highly recommended.

Four Babies Via Caesarian Route

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Leo Coyne of Aurora are rejoicing over the birth of a son, born recently at the St. Charles hospital in Aurora. The fine boy is the fourth child in the Coyne family, and all four have been born by Caesarian operation.

Two Caesarian operations have been considered the limit for the safety of mother and child, and four Caesarian births are rarely found.

All four of the Coyne children are well and strong. The oldest is a daughter, seventeen years. Mrs. Coyne is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Thomas Hannan, of rural DeKalb. She is 36 years old, and with her new born son, is "doing nicely" at the present time.

As-Uh-Can Club Meeting Thursday

The As-Uh-Can Club was entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Glenn Dysart. Due to blocked roads, this meeting had been postponed from February.

The president opened the meeting with the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting.

Roll call was responded to with "Favorite Radio Programs," which proved very interesting.

A social hour followed during which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Miss Nagle Hostess to Travel Club

On Tuesday evening the Dixon Travel Club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. H. R. Harridge, Miss Helen Nagle being the hostess.

There was a good attendance and everyone was greatly interested in the lecture given by Rev. Howard Buxton who talked on Wisconsin, Illinois, Colorado, and the southwest, dwelling in particular on the Pueblo district. The lecture was illustrated and some of the slides being colored.

During the discussion and social hour which followed, tempting refreshments were served, completing a happy evening for all attending.

PHIDIAN ART CLUB TO MEET TUESDAY

The Phidian Art Club will meet at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Mark Keller. The paper of the afternoon, "Architecture, Sculpture and Wood and Metal Work," will be given by Mrs. W. D. Hart.

2-3 cup sugar 1-2 cup boiling water

Sprinkle sugar over bottom frying pan. Heat slowly and stir constantly until a light brown colored syrup forms. Add water and boil 2 minutes or until sugar has completely melted. Cool and use. It is advisable to use a wooden spoon as it will not become too hot to handle. The syrup can be cooled and stored in a covered jar in refrigerator and used as desired.

To remove lime from a teakettle, boil 1 cup water and 1 cup vinegar in the kettle for 10 minutes. This will loosen the lime so that it can be scraped off with a blunt instrument.

Mother-in-Law Day in Texas Develops Chivalry of Males

By GENE HOWE

Originator of Mother-in-Law Day

Amarillo, Tex.—(AP)—Out here on the plains of Texas we may still have dust instead of moisture in our clouds but our men have expanded their protecting sense of chivalry to include their mother-in-law as well as their wives and children.

In Texas the family circle has been made complete and the result is that the divorce rate has slumped sharply in this city.

The man who was worst beaten up in a fist fight in Amarillo last year was a man who had made a coarse, uncouth remark about his own mother-in-law. A neighbor took it up and sent him to the hospital.

It's as dangerous in Texas to make a remark about a mother-in-law as about a mother.

Amarillo will not have a celebration this year but mother-in-law day will be observed quietly and earnestly in nearly every home in this city. Scores of luncheons and dinners will be held throughout the city but there will be no parade or public gathering.

Will Rogers had planned to be here this year for a two-day instead of a one-day pollification, but upon his passing the mothers-in-law did not have the heart to carry on.

Besides, there is a feeling among mothers-in-law that their purpose had been accomplished. No mother-in-law jokes are reprinted and few are retold in this community, and there is less domestic discord in this city than in any place in the country.

The move to honor instead of ridicule the backbone of our American family life has brought about a most remarkable change for the better.

Every fair man knows that the most cruel custom that has survived the horrors of the medieval ages had been our willingness to over-eulogize our mothers and to belittle our mothers-in-law. An angel of a woman does not become a shrew and a busy-body, or a devil in skirts and a home wrecker simply because she has a daughter or son who marries.

Our mothers-in-law on an average are far more useful than the fathers-in-law. The greatest asset a young couple can have is a mother-in-law. The only thing better would be two mothers-in-law. Statistics will show that where there is one or more mothers-in-law on the job a young married couple has a far better chance of sticking it out.

For every mother-in-law who has broken up a home there are 100 who have held homes together.

The reason for the drop in the divorce rate in Amarillo is that when it became respectable for mothers-in-law to be seen in the front room and to have some say in family affairs, their influence for good results in happier homes and better behaved children.

It is a positive fact that the divorce rate in Amarillo has dropped 20 per cent since the movement was inaugurated.

What the whole world needs are more mothers-in-laws instead of less.

DIXON SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR ANNUAL VACATION

Classes Will be Resumed Monday, April 6; Busy Spring

Classes at Dixon high school and grade schools were suspended today at 4 P. M. for the annual spring vacation which extends from today until Monday, April 6.

Teachers departed for their homes or other points to spend their vacations and students looked forward to a pleasant recess minus worries of marks, examinations and other hobbings of the American school boy and girl.

The seven weeks period following spring vacation until the close of school June 1 will be filled with a number of activities. The high school track team will embark in April upon a defense of its N. C. I. conference title, held since 1932, and the high school civics classes will sponsor their annual civics government project in which students of the civics classes elect officers and rule the city for one day sometime in April or May. Baccalaureate and commencement exercises will be held the latter part of May, probably in the newly-completed high school auditorium upon which work is progressing rapidly.

Staircases have been built in the auditorium corresponding to the staircases in the high school gymnasium in the west wing of the building, while the balcony has been completed, lacking only decoration and finishing touches. The main auditorium is filled with scaffolding as men are working daily on the ceiling and walls.

The average American home uses artificial lights seven hours a day during December, and only 2 1/2 hours daily during June.

THE GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

One of Chicago's residents sent the following communication to the Chicago Tribune:

"Last fall our street was torn up to make way for WPA resurfacing. Winter came along and we put up with the inconvenience of a torn street. A couple of weeks ago the street department dug up a neighbor's front yard in an unsuccessful attempt to repair a frozen water pipe. Last week the WPA finally resurfaced our street and every neighbor rejoiced in the knowledge that we had many years to go before we would be troubled with holes in the street. The improvement to the property was also appreciated, but, today the water department of the city is calmly out there digging holes in this new street, each hole about 5x6 feet. They have come back to see if they can fix the frozen water pipes."

Yet the drive is on by the Tugwell element, operating through President Roosevelt, to place the government in charge of all business, and, needless to say, much progress has been made during the last three years.

FLOODS

The primary, direct cause of floods is rainfall. Melting snow and ice, saturation of the soil, and erosion are contributing factors, in that they make for a rapid run-off of the rain; but unless these factors are accompanied by heavy rains, floods seldom occur in the lowlands. In mountain areas, melting snow and ice may by themselves cause flooding of the mountain streams, but these streams are so much shallower and narrower than most of the rivers into which they empty that the latter can usually handle the overflow without a serious rise. Even the present record floods are expected to cause only a moderate rise of the Mississippi and perhaps also on the lower Ohio, if new heavy rains do not fall in the Mississippi basin.

Until the present flood, the record high water in Pittsburgh occurred in 1763, when little or no soil erosion existed in the basins of the Allegheny and the Monongahela. The heaviest flood recorded on the lower Missouri, not equalled since, was in 1844, when erosion was still not serious. And the highest water ever recorded on the Illinois river occurred in the fall of the year, a time when the ground normally is dry.

Though heavy rains thus are the chief cause of floods, saturated soil—whether from snow and ice or from previous rainfall—is a contributing cause. A dry soil will absorb enough rain water to prevent flood while a wet soil will shed off the same amount of water and cause floods. This month the soil in most of the eastern seaboard and the western slopes of the Appalachians was so thoroughly saturated that the recent rains resulted in a run-off of not far from 100 percent.

Another contributing factor in floods is soil erosion. The top soil from which land fertility generally is derived is highly absorbent. When it has been swept away in surface erosion, rain water is apt to run off in sheets. Where erosion has caused gullies, a natural channel is afforded for surplus water to escape. Where both surface and gully erosion have occurred, little water will be retained. The absence of barriers means that silt goes along with the water. It piles up along the banks and on the beds of the rivers, making them narrower and shallower and thereby increasing flood danger all the more. The seriousness of the problem may be seen from the fact that the average depth of this invaluable top soil is only about 7 inches, and it takes nature about 400 years to build or replace one inch.

Experiments in the Finger lakes section of central New York during 1935 showed that slope meadow land lost surface soil at the annual rate of only 150 pounds an acre. This is infinitesimal—in fact, is probably less top soil than would be annually renewed by the ordinary processes of nature. On the other hand, land plowed and left fallow on the same slope lost surface at the rate of 18,000 pounds an acre—120 times as fast and a serious depletion. The surface loss on sloping land sown to potatoes was at the rate of 28,000 pounds an acre. The loss on a similar plot sown in alternate strips of potatoes, oats and clover was only 43 pounds an acre.

NAZI INOCULATION

It has long been a strategy of the regimented state to achieve its ends through propagandized education of its youth.

We have seen the principles of Karl Marx drilled into Soviet youth, we have seen Mussolini bring into being a corporative state, and more recently we have observed Herr Hitler carrying the practice a step further.

In Hitler's latest move there is an astounding lesson for every American school and college. The order is that all candidates for teaching posts in the Prussian middle and higher schools must attend the National Socialistic propagandistic normal schools for at least two semesters before entering the universities.

This, explains Dr. Bernhard Rust, Nazi leader, is to facilitate the "spiritual and intellectual revolution" the youth must experience to become good Hitlerites. Simultaneously, two rousing semesters of propaganda will give them immunity to any liberal tendencies likely to be developed at the universities. In a word, here is inoculation against free thinking.

MANKIND LAGS

In the periodic heydays of our national prosperity, the nation as a whole gives little attention to its great social problems. They are put aside until the pangs of leaner years set in and we seek to discover what is wrong with the huge machine.

The depression has been just such a time, and so far the solution to our social ills remains to be found. But perhaps no one has so sharply diagnosed the trouble as has Dr. Alexis Carrel, famous scientist. The trouble, he says, is that the march of science has left the human being by the wayside.

This eminent thinker urges a new type of scientist whose exclusive function would be to study the great social problems; to turn his attention from development of a material science to development of the human being.

Man seems to have grown more slowly than the institutions he has created. It is high time that he does something about catching up!

THE TINNY TINES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The oranges the Tines had soon disappeared. "Gee, it's too bad that we don't have some more of them," said Doty, with a smile.
"On such fruit I could stuff and stuff, and two of them weren't quite enough. Perhaps, tots, we can find some more. Let's look around a while."
The little bird that flew away, came flying back. They heard him say, "I overheard what Doty said. I've come to lend a hand."
"All through the woods you tots might scout, but I know you'd find no more fruit. However, I can bring you some." Fair Goldy cried, "How grand!"
The bird continued, "Wait right here. I have a secret storeroom near." The Tines watched him flit away. Soon Doty yelled, "Hurrah!"
"A great big orange that bird has found. He's pushing it across the ground. 'Twill be in our possession soon. He's heading right this way!"
"Oh, let's not peel it!" Doty cried. "Instead, we'll push some straws inside and all have lots of juice. 'Twill be an easy thing to do."
Some wild plant stems were used for straws. The tots were very pleased because the juice was very sweet. The fruit was flat when they were through.
Soon Doty jumped and looked around. Said he, "What is that funny sound? My guess is that it's music, but where is it coming from?"
Fair Goldy answered, with a grin, "A cricket and a big violin! Right over near the trees, tots. How that funny bug can strum!"
The cricket shouted, "Howdy do! I'll play a little tune for you. Come over here and join me. I'm a friendly sort, you know."
The Tines rushed up to his side and very shortly Goldy cried, "Oh, my, your music's wonderful. The notes are soft and low."
(The Tines meet a very strange drummer in the next story.)

"Old Hickory's" Shade Speaks

By GUS W. DYER
Professor of Economics and Sociology,
Vanderbilt University

In closing his second term as President of the United States, Andrew Jackson prepared an address to be delivered one hundred years hence. The great seer looked into the distant future and saw his followers by name gathered in a great palatial banquet hall to partake of a royal feast in his honor. Democracy and equality were demonstrated by charging fifty dollars for each plate.

As he listened to the after-dinner speeches it was observed that he address in reply. Much of his rejoinder was deleted by the radio stations on account of the ardent nature of his declarations. But enough came through to enable us to understand what Old Hickory thought of the Jackson Day Dinners.

President Andrew Jackson speaking:

"Congress has no right under the Constitution to take money from the people unless it is required to execute some one of the specific powers entrusted to the government; and if they raise more than is necessary for such purposes, it is an abuse of the powers of taxation and unjust and oppressive. For no circumstances can justify it (Congress) in assuming a power not given to it by the Constitution, nor in taking away the money of the people when it is not needed for the legitimate wants of the government."

"Plain as these principles appear to be, you will yet find that there is a constant effort to induce the general government to go beyond the limits of its taxing power, and impose unnecessary burdens upon the people."

"It is well known that there have always been those amongst us who wish to enlarge the powers of the general government. . . . Its legitimate authority is abundantly sufficient for all the purposes for which it was created, and its powers being expressly enumerated, there can be no justification for claiming anything beyond these. Every attempt to exercise power beyond these limits should be promptly and firmly opposed, for one evil example will lead to other measures still more mischievous; and if the principle of constructive powers or supposed advantages or temporary

Bon Soir

Old maids' hats are the most fascinating of all. One never knows quite what to expect. They usually are tall with many flowers, veils and various queer objects of interest placed in strange places.

One time, I saw one which boasted of a bird perched on the top, a flower in the back, and a fluttery veil which enveloped the wearer's face, perhaps it is best that it did. Why is it that the older women must get the gayest bonnets? Then, they trip along really thinking that they look like a girl of sixteen.

Those hat sales-girls who intimated this fact must suffer from acute twinges of conscience. Invariably fat persons sport the loudest, most conspicuous hats.

Oh, well, if it makes them any happier why shouldn't they?

But it is you and I who have to look at them. Big men get diminutive derbies, and small men get large, floppy fedoras. Oh, the irony of it all. The only time hats prove really objectionable to even to calloused souls is when they are in front of you in the theatre. Especially when you have been anticipating your favorite Zane Grey picture for weeks. Ah, you don't like the westerns? Well, Leslie Howard, then. And now you sly one, you've gotten me off the original subject. I didn't especially care for it either.

Indians in early days spared the lives of chipmunks because the animals were thought to be responsible for healing herbs and roots.

If all America realized Pontiac's goodness this car would lead the world in sales

WE SINCERELY believe that no other car at Pontiac's price is so well qualified to keep you satisfied and save you money. Every Pontiac feature is the finest money can buy. Brakes, for example, are the biggest in the low-price field. Pontiac is America's most distinctive car. Its famous Silver Streak and extra length give it extraordinary beauty. Pontiac has a great record for dependability. Over 83 per cent of all Pontiacs ever built are still in use. Moreover, you can't do better than a Pontiac for all-around economy. In the Yosemite Valley Economy Run*, under American Automobile Association supervision, Pontiac defeated all entrants in its class—averaging 23.9 miles per gallon (no oil added). You can't ask for more, and you can't get more at Pontiac's price. Prove it with a 10-minute ride.

CUBS, CARDS ARE RANKING CONTENDERS

Giants, Pirates to Follow Closely Say Dopesters

Miami, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Spring signs say the Chicago Cubs or St. Louis Cardinals in the 1936 National League pennant race.

The two clubs, such dominant factors in the circuit over the last decade that they have won eight out of the ten pennants between them, shape up every way as the two foremost contenders again, with the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates bringing up the first division rear.

There are big lettered "ifs" on every club roster, but these clubs have the fewest, and the Cardinals have the reputation for digging up the right answers. As for the other four clubs—Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Boston—they don't seem to have more than an outside chance of crashing first division. Their only hopes of a first division berth are centered in the possibility of a crack-up among the circuit's "big four." Should there be one, Brooklyn or Cincinnati appear the logical choices for the choice, vacant spot.

As the clubs get ready to start northward on their final exhibition series before the big show opens, here's how they stack up in order of their 1935 finish:

21-Game Streak Unlikely
Chicago: It's a safe bet the champions won't reel off another 21-game winning streak, and that Charlie Root's 37-year-old arm won't win 15 games again, yet the team, spirited and young, stacks up strong. It will be approximately the same as 1935 except that Manager Charlie Grimm threatens to show the league a couple of fine young pitchers in Clay Bryant and Fabian Kowalk, good looking right handers. The team should have plenty of punch and a brilliant defense.

St. Louis: If the Dean brothers had been good boys and undergone the full spring training schedule, the Cardinals undoubtedly would rate the edge. But they didn't. Paul is overweight and discontended; Dizzy Dean doesn't seem to care much now that he is well off financially. Manager Frankie Frisch is another problem. At 36, he can't be expected to play regularly at the important second base post. No suitable substitute has been found to replace him. Bud Parmelee should be a big help to the pitching staff. The team should pack plenty of punch. Harmony is there, but will it last when the great Dizzy pops off in mid-season form?

New York: There is a suspicion that the Giants are tottering. The second base problem seems solved nicely with Burgess Whitehead. Sam Leslie can step into Manager Bill Terry's place at first if Bill's knee collapses on him. Pitching is doubtful with only three real good bets in Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher and Clyde Claxton. Terry's team has more "ifs" than any other club.

Bucs May Surprise
Pittsburgh: The Pirates have a chance to surprise the league. There's class everywhere in the Pirate den. The big problem confronting Manager Pie Traynor is hustle. They might have won last year with more hustle but they didn't.

Brooklyn: Casey Stengel should have a great pitching staff and plenty of punch. The infield is the question. With more new faces than any club, Casey has only two infielders of proven worth, Linus Frey, who has been ill, and Jersey Joe Stripp, one of the year's most adamant holdouts.

Cincinnati: Manager Charlie Dressen has approximately the same club as that which finished sixth last season. His big job is to develop power on attack. Pitching and defense appear good.

Philadelphia: The Phillies may fool 'em, but they must get a long range hitter of the Chuck Klein type. Manager Jimmie Wilson has

Amboy High School Has Promising Material In Track As Drive Begins

Rock Valley Meet On May 2 To Be In Amboy

Amboy Township high school's track and field prospects are bright this year with twenty-eight answering the call of Coach James Dominetta for the coming spring campaign. Only six veterans have returned but the newcomers appear talented enough to carry on.

Veterans back in the fold for the Scarlets are Floyd Covill, 1935 Rock Valley conference high hurdle champion, Roy Russell, second the conference mile run and who will bear the brunt of Amboy's efforts in these departments again.

Conference Meet At Amboy
Amboy will entertain the Rock Valley conference track meet this year, Saturday, May 2. The district meet will be held May 9 in Freeport and Amboy plans to send representatives also to the state meet in Champaign the following week.

Dual meets have been planned with Mendota, Franklin Grove, Ashton, Walnut and DePue. Triangular meets are also being arranged. Four other veterans besides Covill and Russell are John Griffith, half-mile, Donald McKeown, pole vaulter, William Litts, miler and John Powers, dash and hurdle veteran.

DOG BUSINESS DESCRIBED BY NOTED RAISER

Annual Mississippi Valley Dog Show Planned Soon

St. Louis, March 27.—(AP)—A $75,000,000 industry, but no profit in it.

"That's the way the business of breeding dogs was described today by Howard Foley, Philadelphia, a licensed superintendent of the American Kennel club.

Foley, superintending preparations for the annual Mississippi Valley all-breed dog show, took time out to comment on the dog business.

$75,000,000 Invested
"There's probably $75,000,000 invested in the raising of pedigreed dogs," he said. "About 5000 registered kennels in the nation have buildings and equipment worth $25,000,000. The total value of dogs they own is around $40,000,000."

"In a few instances kennels may be able to show a small profit over a year's time. But most breeders turn the money they make back into further development of their places."

"Then, too, owners often become so attached to their most valuable dogs they won't let them go for any amount of money."

More than 600 dogs are entered in the show which opens today. They will compete for $2500 in cash prizes and trophies.

Kansas Olympic Candidate Cage Quint Is Beaten

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The University of Kansas basketball team, favored by many to come out on top in the Olympic tournament in Madison Square Garden next week, has met its first defeat of the season.

Utah State won by 42-37 last night to give Kansas its first licking in 24 games. Each team now has won one game in their series and the deciding encounter, to determine the Madison Square Garden entrant, will be played tomorrow night.

The University of Arkansas defeated Western Kentucky Teachers 43-36 in the first game of the southern eliminations, and on the coast Washington downed Oregon State 35-29 in a districts 9-10 final.

FOUR TEAMS IN HOCKEY LEAGUE PLAYOFF FINAL

Montreal's Maroons Defend Stanley Cup of 1935

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The National Hockey League playoffs had narrowed down to four teams today after some of the most startling happenings in the memory of oldest inhabitants.

The Montreal Maroons, defending Stanley Cup champions, found themselves two games behind in the three-out-of-five series for the league title with the prospect of having to down the Detroit Red Wings three times straight on Detroit ice in order to reach the Cup final.

The Toronto Maple Leafs, trailing by four goals on the total goals basis as their game with the Boston Bruins went into the second period last night, turned on a sensational rally that saw six tallies in the second period after Boston's Eddie Shore had been banished ten minutes for misconduct. The score of the game was 8-3 and figuring in the first game on the total goal basis it gave the Leafs an 8-6 margin and the semi-final playoff berth.

The New York Americans, who found the going rough in beating out the Montreal Canadiens for a playoff berth, lost to the Chicago Blackhawks 5-4 last night but their 3-0 triumph in their first game gave them a total goal margin of 7-5.

The Americans take on the Leafs in Toronto Saturday night in the first game of a two-out-of-three series for the right to meet the league champion in the Stanley Cup final. The Maroons battle Detroit Sunday night.

Medica Launches Defense Today of Swimming Titles

New Haven, Conn., March 27.—March 27.—(AP)—Jack Medica, University of Washington swimmer, suffered slightly from a cold today as he launched a defense of his three national collegiate A. A. titles.

Coach Ray Daughters said his pupil was not expected to be handicapped during the two-day, 22-event program in which eleven titles will be at stake.

Medica, weighing 187 pounds, set out to defend his 1500-meter title as the 13th annual N. C. A. A. meet got underway. Later, he aimed to retain his 220-yard title tonight and the 440-yard free-style crown tomorrow night.

The Seattle star expected strong competition from Jim Gilhula of Southern California in the 440. Gilhula also will be a threat to Medica's supremacy in the 220, as will Johnny Macdonald, Yale sophomore who has been withdrawn from the 440 but who will swim in the 220, the 100 and the relay.

New Leaders Make Appearance in Am. Bowling Congress

Indianapolis, March 27.—(AP)—Bowling enthusiasts shifted their attention today from the Coliseum alleys to Tomlinson hall for the annual meeting of American Bowling Congress delegates.

Charles Cushing of Peoria, Ill., is slated to become the new president, succeeding A. E. Jankowsky of Detroit.

New leaders in three divisions appeared on the eve of the annual meeting. The Pabst Blue Ribbon five of New York staged a striking spree to nab first place in the five-man event with 3,065, eleven pins ahead of Oak Leaf Motors of Chicago.

Herman Bohne and Jerry O'Grady of Indianapolis took over first place in the doubles with 1,303 while Charley Warren, 22-year-old pinman from Springfield, Ill., went into the singles lead with a sparkling 735.

There are 211,158 motor vehicles licensed in Washington, D. C.; of these 2943 are registered free, being government-owned.

Even more responsible in causing corns than ill-fitting shoes is the failure to walk properly.

NEWS FROM BASEBALL CAMPS

Associated Press Sports Writers Tell of Activities of Major League Stars and Rookies.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
St. Petersburg—Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher who has finally signed, says he got a $1,000 raise. Club officials say that he signed for the same figure as last year.

Gulftport—Clem Dreisewerd, rosy-cheeked Giants' left hander who was tapped for six runs in the ninth inning when he opposed Kansas City, made up for it yesterday when he disposed of three pinch hitters in the ninth as the Giants took the Cubs 7-6.

Clearwater—Casey Stengel says he will begin pining his Dodger squad April 1. He hopes to put Lonnie Frey back to work soon, the shortstop having recovered from his illness enough to drill yesterday. Jimmy Bucher also was expected to be back in harness within a few days.

Lakeland—World Series history gets another chance to repeat itself when the Detroit Tigers meet the Chicago Cubs today and this time the Tigers are in favor of it. That was not true when the Tigers lost 8-5 to the Cards, their conquerors in the 1934 series, at Bradenton yesterday. Big Hank Greenberg, no longer a holdout, will be in the game.

New Orleans—The Indians had a day of rest today after concluding their spring series with the Pelicans. The squad has been cut by two, rookie pitcher Bonnar Phillips having been sent home to await the opening of the Mid-Atlantic season and infielder Dan Pollock being released unconditionally.

San Antonio—It's nearly windup time at the Pirate camp. They play a game among themselves today to help the flood sufferers back home and then start gathering their belongings for the breakup Monday.

Tampa—The Reds today were tuning up for their meeting with the Cubs Saturday and the last game at Plant field Sunday with the Tigers. Dressen is drilling the team on "cut-off" plays on hits to the outfield. Larry MacPhail heads for Macon, Ga. today on a minor league mission and will continue on from there to Cincinnati.

El Paso—The White Sox wind up their schedule with minor teams today and then get ready to tackle the Pirates in 13 straight games which Manager Jimmie Dykes thinks will tell how far his club is destined to go in the league race.

Tallahassee—The Cubs today planned to send Lon Warneke against the Tigers. All starters in the game, with the exception of Warneke, were scheduled to go the distance. Manager Grimm said Carleton will be the relief hurler.

St. Petersburg—Bill McKechnie of the Bees plans to use Jim Chaplin against the Yankees today, following him with Bobby Reis and Danny MacFayden if necessary.

Bradenton—Rookie Mike Ryba, who split the mound work with Roy Parmelee against the Tigers yesterday, is well thought of around the Cardinal camp. He has a fine curve ball and it troubled the Tiger batsmen plenty. Rudy York got hold of one of his offerings however, driving it against a tree 390 feet away.

West Palm Beach—The Browns were scheduled to leave here today for Orlando. Hornsby says that all of the players except Tom Carey and Howard Mills are in excellent shape. Carey, second baseman, still is taking things easy with his sprained ankle and Mills' arm is still giving him a little trouble.

Jacksonville—The Athletics play Jacksonville here today after breaking camp at Fort Myers yesterday. Catcher Charley Berry was left at Fort Myers, however, in charge of a squad of catchers, pitchers and outfielders. They will remain in training there until April 9.

Winter Haven—Billy Murray, ex-Phillies pilot, Gabby Street, ex-Cards pilot and the entire Yankee cast was on hand yesterday as the Bees broke the Phillies' seven game winning streak.

Bradenton—The Nats are a little discouraged by their pitching weakness but are heartened by their bat work. It seems like the same story as last year. Buck Newsom is having a tough time of it. He was struck by a ball on the same kneecap that was broken last year and he also was bruised by a ball off the bat of Red Kress.

Brooks Meeting—

Hudson of the West, three candidates for president have stamped their records. The monument near your Memorial bridge commemorates the services of Abraham Lincoln to his state and country, when as a captain of Illinois militia at the age of 22, he took part in the Blackhawk war. Here too the forces of Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott gathered at Dixon's Ferry. Up the river 20 miles is the home of Frank O. Lowden, now enjoying the merited honor and respect not alone of Illinois but of the nation. Above the river, gazing with inscrutable face over the fields from which the onrushing tide of the white man swept him and his vanishing race, stands the heroic figure of Blackhawk.

"It was my privilege to spend some of my early years in Dixon and to attend your schools steeped in the atmosphere of history that is all about us here. It was logical that in this fertile region at Grand Detour, the steel plow, one of the great advances in agriculture, would be developed.

"This rich and fortunate agricultural area impresses one with the need for careful consideration of the problems of the farm. Agriculture is the largest business in the nation. With its 40 million partners it forms a backbone upon which both industry and commerce rest and without which neither can survive. There can be no permanent prosperity without adequate compensation for farm produce. Your distinguished neighbor, Frank O. Lowden's plan for farm legislation is in my opinion the soundest that has yet been offered. Agricultural aid must not be tainted with politics. Farm ownership by the actual operator must be encouraged as the worthy ambition of every man who works a farm. Money at low net cost must be made more readily available for ownership, seed, crop, stock and improvement purposes.

Permanent Partnership
"There is a permanent partnership between agriculture, industry and business. Farm machinery, fences, buildings and countless steps in modernization await the increased earning power of the farm. Industry and commerce, on the other hand, given new impetus, can absorb the produce of the farm. The forces of recovery are straining at the leash, held back only through a well-grounded fear of Democratic extravagance and bureaucratic control. Government must get out of private competitive business and stay out if it expects industry and commerce to prosper, carry their part of the cost of government and aid in employment. Extravagance and reckless spending must end. Every dollar wasted by government must be repaid with interest by the wage earner and average citizen, Illinois and all its local governments must again balance their budget, keep their expenditures within income and exercise the same sacrifices and rigid economy that our people have borne in their family affairs. There is no other certain road to recovery and permanent prosperity for our people.

Put House In Order
"We are not particularly concerned about our opponents but are merely putting our house in

HISTORY SHOWS DISASTER SPURS U. S. CITIES TO NEW GREATNESS

Downtown San Francisco was a mass of smoking, smoldering ruins when the camera saw this from the Ferry Tower in 1906. Yet on Market street, looking straight ahead, you see the crowds of people and the crews already repairing and relaying tracks, before the ruins had cooled. And today—

The same scene, taken from the same spot. A clean, busy, modern city with never a trace of the ravages of 30 years ago. The Spreckels building tower, which alone remains from the early scene, hides in the background, eclipsed by grander and more splendid buildings. Today come the great Bay bridges to eclipse all.

order. We have no quarrel with them and will let them continue with the quarrel which they have among themselves."

Discussing the sales tax, Mr. Brooks said:

"The sales tax is wrong in theory, in my opinion, as it requires a tax on the absolute necessities of life. Again, it is discriminatory, in that the sales tax in some of the adjoining states is much less than in Illinois and in these instances trade is being attracted to those states and across our borders, where a few pennies on each dollar's purchase can be saved. I pledge to you to reduce this sales tax as rapidly as possible in the event that I am elected the chief executive of this state. I also pledge the reduction of cost of government in Illinois, which will have in effect in the reduction of taxation.

Education, Registration
"The subject of education, I consider, is a state function and it is my belief that Illinois should have the best system of public schools that could be found in the United States.

"Another of my important objectives, if elected governor of Illinois, is a permanent registration bill in this state which will demand honest elections for the citizens of Illinois and the assurance that the ballots will be counted. I promise to keep my hands off the legislature, but if elected, I will begin at once working for such a bill."

In concluding his talk, the candidate stated:

"I am not a candidate for governor against any other particular candidate in this contest for this important office, but am a candidate against all of the other candidates. I am uncontrolled and unassociated with other factions or cliques, and I am opposed to the socialistic wrecking as under the present system."

Oscar Carlstrom of Aledo and George Dowell of DuQuoin, candidates for the Republican nomination for governor, spoke at a "governors' banquet sponsored by the Lee County Taxpayers' association at the Elks club last night. More than 100 persons attended the affair, at which Dr. W. F. Aydelotte of Dixon presided. State Senator Earl B. Seay of Springfield, Republican candidate for state auditor, also spoke.

Fire Side Keepers Entertain Mothers.
The girls of the Fire Side Keepers club of the high school very charmingly entertained their mothers at a delightful banquet at the high school Saturday evening. The lower hall in which the banquet was held was beautifully decorated in rainbow colors. Upon the wall above the drinking fountain hung a lovely rainbow, the ends disappear behind large pots of gold, resting on tall flower-decked pedestals. The fountain beneath was also trimmed in gold and festooned with flower sprays and petals.

Eleven tables laid for the one hundred guests were delicately appointed in lovely pastel shades, each centered with a pot of gold and flower sprays, surrounded by pretty colored stones. Favors were miniature umbrellas of every color set in different colored gum drops and the combined place cards. Menu and programs were different colored booklets with a rainbow at the top. The delicious menu, which consisted of fruit cup, salmon loaf, scalloped potatoes, buttered peas and carrots, rolls, butter, graham cracker pie, coffee.

Dorothy Dean, acting as toast-mistress of the evening, introduced the speakers and announced the program which included a greeting to the mothers by Orva Landis, president of the Fire Side Keepers, and a response on behalf of the mothers by Mrs. Frank Howard. A clarinet quartet composed of Norma Jenkins, Marie Wallace, Kathryn Lovell and Martha Mail, played a very nice selection. Miss Mary Lee Hunt, the girls' counselor gave a short talk and was followed by the speaker of the evening, Miss Sophia Reed of Springfield, the Assistant State Supervisor of Home Economics Education in Illinois. Miss Reed's talk was on "The Girls of Yesterday and the Women of Tomorrow" and was very much enjoyed by both the girls and their mothers.

A reading "O Mother O' Mine" was given by Jane Schmidt.

A feature of the evening's entertainment which contributed much to its enjoyment was a style show of old and new dresses. About thirty dresses were modeled by the girls who slowly descended the stairs at the end of the hall as the history of each dress was read by Vivian Landis. The dresses shown were from the styles of 1870 up to those made by the girls in the sewing class, most of them belonging to the mothers or grandmothers of the girls who wore them.

What Candidates For Governorship of Illinois Said

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, backing Dr. Herman N. Bundesen for the Democratic governorship nomination, in a radio address at Chicago: "Let's not fool ourselves. We simply cannot re-elect Henry Horner. The sentiment is definitely against him—not only here but throughout the entire state as well." He said enemies of President Roosevelt backed Gov. Horner because his nomination "would aid greatly in reducing the Roosevelt vote in Illinois."

Gov. Horner seeking the Democratic renomination, replying at Peoria to Mayor Kelly's address at Chicago: "I've been calling him 'Boss' Kelly and I should have called him 'Babe' Kelly. Now he wants the people to believe he had nothing to do with selecting opposition to me."

Dr. Bundesen opposing Gov. Horner for the Democratic nomination for governor, at Moline: "It is shamefully incongruous for the state to spend four times as much per prisoner in the penitentiaries as it provides for elementary school education." He said the present state administration spent $65 for schooling per student and $231 per prisoner per year.

C. Wayland Brooks, seeking the Republican nomination for governor, at Freeport: "Our people are hungry for common sense and sound economy. Those who are weary of 'planned economy,' which in reality is 'planned wreckage,' are banding themselves together for the attack on Democratic bureaucracy."

Otis F. Glenn, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, referring at Chicago to a "state-wide demand for honest election": "Unless elections are honestly and fairly conducted allowing the voters to register their opinions without having their ballots overcome by underhanded means, then our whole scheme and plan of government is in danger and, in fact, overcome."

Patrick A. Nash, head of the Cook county Democratic central committee, in a plea for party harmony at Cicero: "It is terrible to fight among ourselves; we must save all our fighting spirit for the Republicans."

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

SERIOUS talk of a proposed new issue of U. S. postage stamps has been partially confirmed by President Roosevelt. The president revealed that the Postoffice Department has been considering a series of stamps honoring American army and navy heroes, and possibly including illustrations of West Point and Annapolis.

Whether these will replace the current set, which came out in 1922, or add an additional issue will be decided by the existing set. The stamps for the army and navy heroes are hard to decide. A variety of suggestions have come in. Among them are requests for stamps honoring Paul Jones, Lafayette, John J. Persy, and Robert E. Lee.

The army and navy set, President Roosevelt disclosed, had been under discussion ever since the days of Theodore Roosevelt. It may be several months before the set will appear.

Uncle Sam won't lose a cent of the costs entailed in printing the stamps that were to be issued to farmers who held their potato crops to certain limits, before the supreme court declared the AAA unconstitutional. The "potato tax" stamps now are being gobbled up by collectors at face value—a total of $5.18. The stamps may be obtained from the Bureau of Internal Revenue at Jacksonville, Fla., or Washington, D. C.

The 50-cent Graf Zeppelin stamp now is being offered at from $2 to $2.50, superb, and from $1.50 to $1.75 used. An unused sheet of 19 recently brought $142, or $2.81 a stamp.

News of Passing of Mrs. Blanche Barnhizer Received in Dixon

The LaVerne, Calif., Leader of last Friday, March 20, said:

News of the death of Mrs. Blanche Barnhizer on last Friday was received with a distinct sense of personal loss by the many friends in LaVerne, where she had made her home for about 17 years.

Obituary.
Blanche B. Hildebrand, daughter of Simon and Ann Gantz Hildebrand was born Dec. 19, 1861, on a farm at Pennsylvania Corners, Ogle county, Ill. Here she grew to womanhood. On Dec. 17, 1885, she was united in marriage with Charles M. Barnhizer. They established their home in the same community, living most of the time on the home farm of her parents. In 1911 they moved to LaVerne, Calif., where they built their home on Lincoln Ave.

The husband and father passed away very suddenly May 25, 1923. This was a hard blow for her but with characteristic courage she went bravely forward. For the past 8 years she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. D. W. Lefever at Compton, thoroughly enjoying herself in the quiet atmosphere of this home.

In January, 1936, she was stricken with paralysis which left her helpless, and though she recognized her family, she was unable to talk with them. She was tenderly cared for in the hospital at Compton for six weeks and it was there she departed this life on March 14, 1936, at the age of 74 years, 2 months and 24 days. She was the last of a family of nine children.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Ira Butterbaugh of LaVerne, Mrs. M. E. Garber of Pasadena, Mrs. D. Welty Lefever of Compton and one son, Robert Barnhizer of Pasadena; 11 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren, who cherish the memory of a wonderful mother, and grandmother, one whose wise counsel and loving sympathy helped them over many of life's rough places. She made many friends who too will cherish her memory.

She was a member of the Church of the Brethren since young womanhood and was always a loyal supporter of the church and spent much time and energy in active church work. She lived a busy, active life till five years ago when her health began to fail.

Funeral services were held from Todd & Reeves Funeral Parlors, Monday, March 16, at 10 A. M.; her pastor, Rev. G. K. Walker officiating with Dr. E. M. Studebaker assisting. The 23rd Psalm, a favorite of the deceased, was used in the service. A male quartette from LaVerne College composed of Elvin Ebersole, Thomas Carter, Roland Callison, Harold Michael, sang "Saved by Grace." Mr. Callison

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

FAMOUS DOG MASCOT OF ADMIRAL BYRD, ONCE WAS JUST A STRAY CUR, ROAMING THE STREETS OF WASHINGTON, D. C. A LADY FOUND HIM, COLD AND HUNGRY, IN A CANDY SHOP DOORWAY AND TOOK HIM HOME. LATER, SHE PRESENTED HIM TO ADMIRAL BYRD AS A MASCOT FOR HIS POLAR EXPEDITIONS.

THERE IS LESS THAN ONE POUND OF RADIUM IN THE WORLD TODAY.

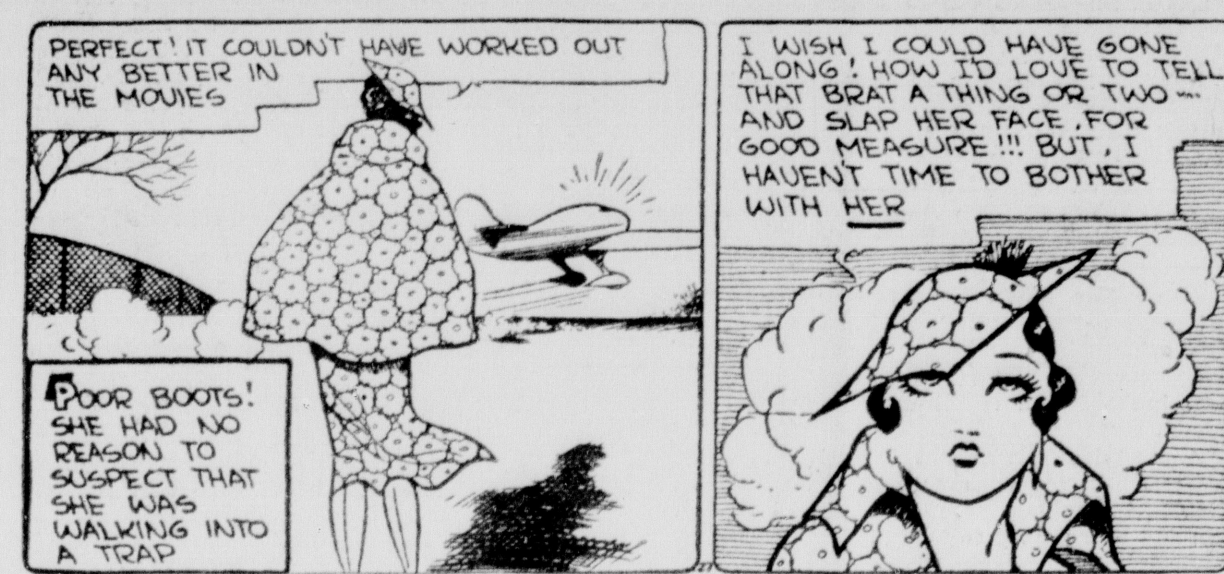

Igloo was the only dog in the world to travel to both polar regions. Had he not taken refuge in a doorway, at 12th and P streets, N. W., in the city of Washington on one cold day some years ago it is quite probable that he would have ended up in the city pound . . . instead of becoming one of the world's best known dogs.

LENTEN SERVICES
Dr. Buxton, the pastor of the Methodist church presided last evening at the second of the Lenten services. After a bright and cheery song service the Rev. W. E. Thompson of the Church of the Brethren read from the seventeenth chapter of Luke and led in prayer. Dr. Buxton then introduced the speaker, Dr. Goff. He spoke on finding the will of God for ourselves and based his address on three texts. "They shall ask their way to Zion with their faces thitherward," Jer. 50-5; "As they went they were cleansed;" and "If any man will do His will, he shall know of the doctrine."
He said: I am very much interested in clean living in a clean world and I want us to do our thinking together on this subject. A man once said to me in the lobby of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. "If there is any God, why does He hold Himself aloof? Why doesn't He reveal Himself?" I am afraid we build too much of our religion on credulous superstition. We are too much concerned with the framework and not so much concerned with the living. Last summer one of the most wonderful sights I saw in the east was the sight of roses climbing on old barns and garages. You can have lovely trellis work but no roses. Good experiences are more important than a clear theology. It is better to have your own ideas even

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Marshall department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and HARRY LYLE, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MATHINE HALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets Harry Lyle and he sends her to HEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Toby works as a model.
On a bus one afternoon she meets wealthy TIMOTHY JAMIESON who asks her to have dinner with him. Toby refuses.
Toby and her friend, HARRY BLAKE, take part in a benefit style show. CAROL MARSH, wealthy and ambitious, also is in the show. Toby, parading as a model, sees Jamieson again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

TOBY said, "But this isn't the third time. It's the fourth."
"Do you really remember?" Tim Jamieson's smile widened. "Say, that's great! Yes, this is the fourth time Kind Fate has brought us together. It really must be Fate, you know, because when I try to find you I never can, then when I least expect to see you—there you are! That's Fate, isn't it?"

"Maybe," Toby smiled. "But it's Fate, too, that I'm working and can't stand here talking—"

"What I meant," Tim went on quickly, "was that it was the third time I'd tried to catch your eye here in this room. Third time's charm, you know. When I was a kid we used to say that. We'd try to do something and if it didn't work the first time or the second, we'd always say—"

"I know," Toby put in quickly. "Third time's charm. I used to say it, too. But really, I've got to go. Don't you understand that I'm modeling—"

"I certainly do," he assured her. "And doing a swell job of it. As a matter of fact, you're a knock-out in that outfit. Best looking model in the room. Oh, yes, you are. Absolutely a knock-out!"

Toby didn't wait to hear any more. She hurried toward the door. Fortunately the girl who was waiting there was Harriet, who made no comment, though her arched brows indicated that she had witnessed the brief scene.

Back in the dressing room, Toby stole a glance at herself in the mirror. There was color in her cheeks that had not been there before.

A girl Harriet had introduced as Janet came over to where Toby sat and said, "How do you suppose this thing should go? It's more than I can figure out—"

Janet was wearing a lemon-colored chiffon gown, with an intricate beaded collar that didn't look quite as if it should be. Toby made a suggestion, but it didn't seem to help. They tried several other ways until Miss Lander's assistant showed them how the scarf was supposed to be worn.

JANET picked up a lemon-colored cart-wheel hat, then tilted it on her head and disappeared through the door as Carol Marsh came flouncing in.

"Betty!" Carol exclaimed. "Who do you think I just saw?"
"How should I know?" Betty Turnbull answered. She was sitting before a mirror, intent on placing a hair ornament in her blond curls. "Who was it?"

"Tim Jamieson—of all people!"

though they may be poor than ideas that you have borrowed from some one else. God is not capricious but reasonable and reveals His will to us and for us in an orderly fashion. Let us with Bliss Carman, take a day to search for God. You can find Him under any circumstances. Sometimes people have the idea that medicine must be unpleasant before it can be good. If we are in sympathy with Him and our lives are being lived in tune with Him then He will reveal His will to us. Shut out the world with its distractions and be still in His presence. Develop an alert sensitivity to the things of God. God is not far away from us but He is near at hand. Give Him time to talk to us. Let us have a sense of awareness to the spirit of God. If you have got to the end of your rope then hang on until guidance comes. "As they went they were cleansed," Dr. Buxton closed with prayer.

The last of these services will be held tonight when Dr. Goff will speak on "Unfinished Christians." The Rev. Walter W. Marshall will preside.

ST. LUKE'S EPISCOPAL

Can you imagine Tim at a style show? I was never more surprised in my life! But I suppose somebody told him I was modeling here this afternoon and that's why he came. He follows me everywhere, honestly, it's almost a nuisance—but, of course, I'm crazy about him."

"Who wouldn't be?" Betty had the ornament in place now and turned. "He's got everything, hasn't he? Looks, family, money—what more could a girl want? If there were more Tim Jamiesons in the world I'd be a lot better pleased."

"It was sweet of him to come, wasn't it?" Carol wiped rouge from her lips, preparatory to smoothing on a fresh supply. "You know what I think I'd do? I'm going to tell Tim he can take us to the Saville Club tonight. They say there are some divine new dancers there. I was supposed to go somewhere with Tom Prescott—he's been calling and calling and I finally promised him a date—but I'll get out of it somehow."

"Oh, do, Carol! I'll call Wally—or, no, I don't believe I will. We might run into someone else—"

They went on, making plans for the evening. Toby could hear their voices clearly, but she was not listening. So Tim Jamieson was mad about Carol Marsh, was he? Followed her everywhere. That was the reason he had come to the fashion show—because Carol was there.

Oh, what a little fool she'd been! What a silly, ridiculous little fool!

SHE looked at Carol Marsh again. Yes, Carol was the sort for Tim Jamieson. She had money and family position, just as he did. She'd never worked a bargain counters or fought her way through rush-hour crowds. She'd never hunted, day after day, for a job that would pay enough to keep her alive. "One of the Park Avenue darlings," Harriet had called Carol. That was what she was—whether she lived on Park Avenue or not. One of the Park Avenue darlings.

The maid was slipping a dress over Carol Marsh's head. One of the fastenings caught in a bit of fragile lace and Carol spoke sharply.

"Clumsy creature!" she said. "Can't you watch what you're doing?"

Well, if that was the sort of girl Tim Jamieson was crazy about, all right. That was fine with Toby. That was wonderful. "I never want to see him again!" she told herself. "Never. And this time I mean it!"

Suddenly Toby realized that she had been wasting time. She'd have to hurry; she was supposed to go on in a few minutes. The models had been warned that if one of them were late she'd throw the entire show off schedule.

Toby took down the yachting suit everyone had exclaimed about, and got into it. The suit had white trousers and a blue coat like a ship's officer's. To top it, there was a frivolous version of a sailor's cap, to be worn at an audacious angle.

Toby stood before the full-length mirror, trying the cap. Yes, it was better tilted to the right. It was quite becoming. She stepped back, studying the effect. The yachting suit looked well on her, too. Miss Lander had said at once that Toby was to wear it. So few girls could wear trousers; Toby was one of the few.

A voice at her elbow cut in. "Of course we all know

PARKING SINS

Parking accidents furnish an important contribution to the motor vehicle death and injury toll. Also careless parking gums up the traffic flow and adds to the confusion on our highways. Here are the most common sins of the careless parker:

1. In his usual hurry, he parks too far from the curb. On narrow streets such action invites crashes and just about spoils one lane of traffic.
2. Quite often, at night, he turns off his lights, increasing the danger of collision.
3. Frequently he double-parks, which is unfair and in most communities, forbidden.
4. He parks too close to intersections, obstructing the vision of both motorists and pedestrians.
5. He gets out on the left hand side rather than the curb side of his car.
6. Lastly and most important, he too often fails to signal when parking or pulling away from the curb.

DAILY HEALTH

SCIATICA

Sciatica is defined as a painful inflammation of the sciatic nerve, the largest nerve of the leg. The condition is attended by sensitiveness of the skin and underlying tissues of the thigh and leg, with special tenderness along the course of the nerve. The pain is usually constant but is subject to variations in intensity.

But that which the public calls sciatica may turn out to be sciatic neuralgia. The difference is that whereas in sciatica the nerve itself is inflamed in sciatic neuralgia the pain is due to some disturbance outside the nerve.

True sciatic neuritis (nerve inflammation) may be due to a variety of causes. Thus, a generalized condition such as alcohol intoxication, lead or arsenic poison or syphilis, may be responsible for the nerve inflammation. Again the neuritis may be due to pressure on the nerve from tumors within the spinal cord or growths along its passage-way, etc.

Sciatic neuralgia may be the result of disturbances elsewhere in the body. Among these are muscular weakness or muscular insufficiency, physical and postural strains, and any environmental condition which irritates and taxes the nervous system.

That which the patient may call "his sciatic" may be a condition difficult to diagnose and equally difficult to treat. Treatment, to be effective, must be based on a careful study of the underlying cause or causes.

In sciatic neuritis where the nerve is inflamed, treatment beside being palliative, will need to be directed against the disease or condition responsible for the inflammation. In sciatic neuralgia, the correction of muscular insufficiency, the elimination of undue physical strain and nervous tension may bring the desired relief.

In brief, then, sciatica is a condition of complicated origin, requiring searching diagnosis and specific and fitting treatment.
